The New Cruiser Baltimore.

The report of the trial board on the new cruiser Baltimore, giving the statistics of her second test, will probably be received at the Navy department by Monday next and then the question of her acceptance will arise. There is no doubt in the minds of naval officers generally that she has fulfilled every condition of her contract, with a margin of at least 500 horse power above the 9,000 mark. This will give Cramps a power premium of $50,000, from which will come about $20,000 for the trial expenses and time penalties. The Baltimore will go to Norfolk from Philadelphia early next sek to receive her armament and the finishing touches, which the government gives her. All of her six-inch guns, six in number, are com-pleted and will be shipped from the factory in this city in a few days. The four eight-inch guns will not be ready for about five months.

Two Conscience Contributions. Treasurer Huston this morning received a letter from a Philadelphia lawyer inclosing the sum of $625, which he said a client of his who does not wish to give his name feels to be due the government as duties on "cigars and other luxuries which he has consumed during the past few years." The money was deposited in the Treasury to the credit of "conscience." The Secretary of the Treasury received in an envelope postmarked Washington, D.C., but bearing marks of having been sent from New York, the sum of $296, which the sender says is "to pay duties due United States uncollected through misapprehension of importer." This, too, was placed to the credit of "conscience."

WITH $5 IN HIS POCKET.

The Coin that Frank Worth Started Life With.

From the New York Evening Sun. When Frank Work, the great Wall street magnate, was nine years of age his schoolmaster punished him unmercifully by grasping one of his hands and pounding the ends of his fingers with a ferrule until the blood spurted from them. When he went home he told his mother that he would never go to that school again. His mother wisely sympathized with him and agreed that he should not again come under the authority of such a man.

In commenting on the whipping to his mother, Frank uttered a mild cuss word, and for this his mother promised and gave him a have arrived at the Arlington and will remain in Washington about a fortuight. The general he plainly told her that it would be the last is here to attend the meeting of the American whipping she would ever inflict upon him.

That night he bade his mother good bye, kissed her affectionately, packed up his belongings and, with a $5 gold piece and about thirty cents in his pocket, left the house. He has not seen his mother since.

He worked his passage on a boat to New Or-eans and in course of time drifted to New York and into Wall street, in which neighb hood he has since made his individuality and grasped sundry situations and dollars.

The strangest part of his story is that through The strangest part of his story is that through all his trials and privations he never found it necessary to spend the original gold piece with which he left home. He is now seventy-one years old and as hale and hearty as it is possible for a man of his age to be, and he has that coin still in his possession and treasures it more than anything he owns. But he is not evaricious, and, while he kept the $5. he spent avaricious, and, while he kept the $5, he spent

This event closed the life of the bowling club as organized by Miss Dahlgren, as its time was limited to the months of November and December, a between-seasons pastime spent in the practice of a healthful invigorating and exciting game. The number of members in the club was never increased after its organization, and the member who invited a guest to a meeting had to give up his own place and practice to his friend, as the number at play is limited. The social compliments of the club were extended through the numerous teas that were given in honor of the club and by the balls that Mrs. honor of the club and by the balls that Mrs.

ONE IMPORTANT PROVISION OF THE BILL

A NOTABLE ASSEMBLAGE. Sixth Annual Meeting of the American Historical Association.

The first session of the sixth annual meeting of the American historical association will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock in the Arlington. The meeting will continue until Tuesday night. The mornings and evenings of each of the three days will be devoted to the reading of historical papers by members of the trict, for if passed it would establish a permanent system of highways and simplify the The morning sessions will be held at the national museum at 10:30 o'clock and the evening university at 8 o'clock. The Cosmos club has invited the association to be its guests during their stay in this city. PAPERS TO BE READ TOMORROW.

divisions and through intervening tracts of land. Every one knows that before Congress passed the bill providing that all future sub-divisions should be made in accordance with the general plan of the city of Washington a number of subdivisions were recorded, the streets of which were not in accordance with the general plan of the city. This prevents the extension of the street plan through and beyond said subdivisions, and causes a great deal of trouble to visitors, who find it next to impossible to locate a street in a subdivision, whereas did the subdivisions conform to the plan of the city the existing system of numberng would make the task an easy one.

Another important provision is that relative to the width of streets. The bill stipulates that in no case shall these extended streets be less than ninety feet in width. In some subdivisions about the city the streets are in many cases not this wide.

DAMAGES FOR CONDEMNATIONS. But perhaps the most noticeable of the provisions of the bill is the one in reference to damages awarded for condemnations, as it makes a complete change of existing methods. The bill says that "one-third shall be assessed by the Commissioners upon the private property in the abutting squares. except for improvements condemned under this act, and shall be collected as special improvement taxes in said District since February 21, 1871, are collected, and shall be payable in five equal annual installments, with four per centum interest from date of assessment; the remainder shall be chargeable to the revenues of the District of Columbia and to the United States in equal parts."

The present system of awarding damages in cases of condemnation is to make them payable from special appropriations.

The placing of the discretion of the naming of streets, avenues, alleys and public spaces in the Commissioners is another prevision and will meet with the approval of the Commis-

THE SECTION AS TO ISSUE OF BONDS TO THE AMOUNT OF $2,500,000. It is the seventh section that is creating the most discussion, and the Commissioners intend to give it serious consideration before reporting upon it. That section is as follows:

"That to provide for the payment of the lands and improvements condemned for streets and avenues herein provided for the Commissioners of the District of Columbia are hereby authorized and empowered to have executed and pre-pared bonds of the District of Columbia of the denomination of $100 and $500, to an amount not exceeding $2,500,000, to bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, payable semi-annually on the 1st day of January and July in each year, to be dated July 1, 1890, and to run and be payable fifty years from July 1, 1890; said bonds to be signed by the Commis-sioners of the District of Columbia and countersigned by the Secretary of the Treasury of the United States."

DISTRICT OFFICIALS PAVOR THE MEASURE. A prominent official at the District building today, in speaking of the bill, said that it was one which would receive a great amount of opposition, but if passed it would give general C. Hein and T. H. Gibbs. Commissioners could go to the subdivisions which do not conform to the general plan of the city and condemn the land, although the streets may be paved. The Commissioners are all of one voice regarding the importance of the bill. They say the necessity of some such a bill is manifest, although the present one may not be broad enough. They will consider the bill before them at an early day and report their views to Congress.

DISTRICT GOVERNMENT.

SEEKING A SITE FOR A BRANCH OFFICE. Postmaster Ross has written to the Commis sioners asking them to designate points on 41/2 street and 7th street southwest, about a mile from the main city post office, suitable for the location of a branch post office.

A DANGEROUS CHIMNEY. Several days ago the Commissioners received a request that immediate action be taken in removing the chimney on the premises 321 Missouri avenue as it was condemned some time ago and is in danger of falling. The attorney for the District, to whom the matter was re-ferred, says he knows of no law providing for the repair of private property at public ex-pense. He suggests that the occupants of the property be order to vacate until the proper repairs are made.

A Winter Cyclone.

To the Editor of THE EVENING STAR: December 26, 1889, the papers report a cyclone through New York state. The cyclone is the result of heat, therefore it is more common during the warmer months of the year; still it is not impossible, as the facts will testify, even in midwinter. The conditions being Gen. Grant Wilson and family of New York have arrived at the Arlington and will remain in Washington about a fortnight. The general is here to attend the meeting of the American historical association.

south and west of the center. One of the most peculiar tornadoes we ever had was a few years ago, when the center one morning was somewhere in the neighborhood of St. Louis and the next morning at Pittsburg. In Ohio it produced a tornado with a northwest wind, one in Tennessee or Kentucky with a northwest wind, and one along the Ohio valley with a west wind. But, nevertheless, they obeyed the general law, taking place in the track of a "low," which had been preceded by other "lows" farther to the north. The destruction Mr. Edwin Gawler. son of Mr. Joseph Gawler, sud secretary to M. L. Sargent of Kansas City, Mo., traffic manager of Memphis route, is in the city visiting his parents.

moderate south "highs." have been the cause of the warm weather thus far this season.

Now comes along another "low" and takes a course trending toward the northeast. The result, a tornado or cyclone (call it what you will) in its track, which happened to lay through the state of New York. It would hardly seem worth while, at least to the readers of Tuz Star, to go over the old ground as to the "highs" and the "lowa." It would seem sufficient at this time to call attention to the fact of the phenomenon in the winter as well as in the summer. Let the conditions be favorable and the season of the year is no special factor in the case.
